Land Acknowledgement

Western University recognizes that its campus is situated on First Nations territory. The Great Lakes woodland region of Turtle Island has been home to many Nations over centuries, and at different times, including the Anishinaabek, Haudenosaunee, Lunaapeewak and Huron-Wendat peoples.

The three local First Nations communities in closest proximity to Western are:
- Chippewas of the Thames First Nation;
- Oneida Nation of the Thames; and
- Munsee-Delaware Nation.

For some time, the Dish with One Spoon Covenant Wampum served as an agreement between the Haudenosaunee and Anishinaabek for sharing hunting territory, thus ensuring the viability of this land into the future. After contact, Treaty-making between the Anishinaabek and Britain took place. In the London area, there are several Treaties including the Treaty 6 London Township, Treaty 7 Sombra Township and Treaty 21 Longwoods.

Today, London and the region are home to a diverse Indigenous population including First Nations, Metis and Inuit people. By recognizing Indigenous peoples’ historic and present relationships to the land and London, Ontario, Western makes explicit Indigenous peoples’ ongoing presence and their rights to self-determination.

What is the Office of Indigenous Initiatives?

Western’s Office of Indigenous Initiatives and the Vice-Provost/Associate Vice-President (Indigenous Initiatives) will lead the system-wide change required to advance truth and reconciliation efforts, achieve equitable outcomes for Indigenous peoples, and implement Western’s Indigenous Strategic Plan. The VP/AVP (Indigenous Initiatives) oversees our Indigenous Student Centre.

Christy R. Bressette is Western’s first Vice-Provost & Associate Vice-President (Indigenous Initiatives). Christy—whose Anishinaabe name is Neeta-Noo-KeerKwe (Hard-Working Woman)—joined Western on March 1, 2021, after serving as the National Coordinator for Indigenous Education with the Council of Ministers of Education, Canada since 2008. Serving with passion and commitment over the past two decades, Christy has also supported area Anishinabe, Haudenosaunee, and Lenape Nations, as well as Friendship Centres, within work to advance education outcomes for Indigenous learners in the areas of policy, curriculum, and governance.

As one of the first Indigenous women to earn a PhD in Educational Studies from Western, where she also earned her BA (Honours) in History and BEd (with distinction), Christy has strong ties to Western. In addition to teaching at the primary and secondary level in Ontario and British Columbia, she has also taught several graduate-level courses related to Indigenous culture and education in Western’s Faculty of Education since 2004. In 2017/18, she co-chaired the Provost’s Task Force on the Implementation of Western’s Indigenous Strategic Plan (2017/18). Throughout her career, Christy has demonstrated an astute ability for bridging cultural differences between people to help ensure inclusive, equitable, and quality education opportunities for all.

Acknowledgement of Candace Brunette-Debassige

Candace Brunette-Debassige continued in her role as Acting Vice-Provost & Associate Vice-President (Indigenous Initiatives) until Christy arrived on March 1, 2021. At that time, Candace then transitioned to a new role as Special Advisor to the Provost (Indigenous Initiatives) until June 30, 2021. In her new role, Candace supported the Provost and the new Vice-Provost during the leadership transition period. Candace will continue on her journey as an Assistant Professor with the Faculty of Education. For the past two years, Candace has been a strong leader, advancing the area of Indigenous Initiatives in many important ways while at the same time completing her doctoral studies in the Faculty of Education. We are immensely grateful for her courageous leadership and ongoing commitment to serving Western.

We welcome and congratulate Christy in her new role and thank Candace for her years of leadership and service.

An Indigenous Approach to Self-Determination

Indigenous students wanted to revitalize the longstanding practice of creating and using a Wampum agreement when designing a new logo for the Indigenous Student Centre. Wampum Belts are traditionally made of quahog shells and have been used by the Haudenosaunee since time immemorial. Wampum represents shared values and understandings, ranging from the simplest agreement between two people to more complicated agreements between Nations.

The Indigenous Initiatives Wampum exemplifies the guiding principles necessary to uphold the Indigenous Student Centre’s vision, purpose and goals through an Indigenous approach.

About the creators: Lori and Jason George are Western Alumni from the Indigenous Studies Program in the Faculty of Social Science. Lori is Haudenosaunee from Oneida Nation of the Thames, and Jason is Pottawatomi from Aazhoodenong.
Visiting Elders

The Indigenous Student Centre (ISC) is proud to be able to offer various forms of cultural counselling, teachings, and guidance for our Indigenous students. These supports through community members, Elders, and counsellors are available through various ISC programming as well as through one-on-one meetings with students. Our Elders are here to support students during their university journey. Indigenous Elders bring vitally missing Indigenous ways of knowing, languages, and cultural practices into the university learning and work context.

Bay of Quinte on Tyendinaga Territory

"I am a member of Mohawks of the Bay of Quinte on Tyendinaga Territory. The reserve is an hour outside of Kingston, Ontario where I grew up. I am a first-year student in the Bachelor of Education – Primary/Junior program, and recently completed my undergraduate degree at Western with an Honours Specialization in Media, Information and Technoculture and a certificate in Digital Communication. Throughout my time at Western, I have held many leadership roles. This includes Marketing Director of USC’s Early Outreach Conference, multiple takeovers on the ISC Instagram and most notably, Summer Academic Orientation Peer Advisor. For the past two summers, I have met with incoming first-year students to plan courses, discuss student life and ease anxieties surrounding their university transitions."
Indigenous Learning Space to open Fall 2022!

Indigenouslearningspace.uwo.ca

Western’s Indigenous Learning Space (ILS) is located adjacent to the Faculty of Education at 1137 Western Road. The ILS is a 10,000 square-foot, stand-alone building featuring:

- Unique, circular architecture
- 3 floors, including an upper mezzanine with balcony
- Skylight
- Wheelchair access

The Vision:
The Indigenous Learning Space will act as:

- A home-place for Indigenous initiatives (e.g., Indigenous student groups and Indigenous programming);
- A venue that supports and advances Indigenous ways of knowing and Indigenous pedagogies across disciplines;
- A touchstone for Indigenous peoples and communities to engage with Western through ongoing community engagement and knowledge mobilization activities;
- A place of connectivity among all people at Western who share a common interest in advancing Indigenization, decolonization, and reconciliation – fostering a sense of community around diversity.

Second-year Medical Science student, Faculty of Science

• Varsity rugby
• Member of Indigenous Circles of Support and Leadership

“Coming to university can be a daunting task, especially during these recent unprecedented times. In spite of that, I have found the transition fairly seamless and enjoyable here at Western. There is a great support system in place at the Indigenous Student Centre, and the staff do an amazing job of creating a safe, inviting, and family-like environment.

Western has provided me with a variety of opportunities to extend my learning both in and outside of school. Upon completion of my undergraduate degree, I hope to continue my schooling and attend medical school. As an Indigenous and Black student, I believe representation in that field of academia is integral to encouraging others with diverse backgrounds to strive for their goals. My hope is to be a part of that representation and to promote equity in the medical field while being the best physician I can be.”

Indigenous Admissions Access Category – IAAC

Western University is committed to increasing access to postsecondary education for Indigenous learners. This commitment involves offering accessible admission pathways for Indigenous applicants. The purpose of the Indigenous Admissions Access Category is to encourage undergraduate applications from Indigenous individuals and to provide extended academic, personal and cultural support necessary for transition and success. If you wish to be considered under this admission category, complete the requirements listed at indigenous.uwo.ca/students/future-students/iaac-undergraduate.html

Indigenous Students from the United States

Western University honours the Jay Treaty 1794 by offering domestic tuition rates to Native American students from the United States. Meet Nick Bkwejwanong (Walpole Island) First Nation First-year, Sociology and Indigenous Studies

• First-year Rep on the Indigenous Student Association

"Boozhoo Aniin, my name is Nicholas Keller, and I am from Walpole Island First Nation, Bkejwanong Territory. I am currently in my First Year of studies at Western University. I plan to continue my studies by pursuing an honours specialization in Sociology, combining it with a major in Indigenous Studies. My overall goal is to go to medical school, to become a doctor and an Indigenous advocate through Indigenous health care. I am a recipient of the 2021/2022 National Indigenous Scholarship program and of the Local First Nations Scholarship program. My current involvement in the Indigenous Students’ Association as one of the two selected first-year representatives, and participation in the Indigenous Circles of Support and Leadership Program has allowed me to continue my Indigenous advocacy, learning and bonding through university. Prior to university, I was the Thames Valley District School Board Indigenous Student Trustee, so having these programs in place has allowed me to continue to develop my advocacy and leadership skills, as well as drive my passion for Indigenous advocacy. The Indigenous Student Centre has been a place of support for me through my transition from secondary education to postsecondary education, which provides me with comfort that I will have a place of being during my studies at Western University."

Why study Indigenous Studies at Western?

- Interdisciplinary: Have an opportunity to study multiple areas of importance to Indigenous peoples in Canada and worldwide, including history, culture, language, health and well-being, and the environment.
- Small Class Sizes: Our average class size ranges between 15-20 students. Be a part of a tight-knit community of learners.
- Indigenous Professors: Our program has professors from Mi’kmaq, Cree, Maori, Anishinabe and Mohawk Nations.
- Flexible Program: Combine with another program at Western to design a degree perfect for your interests.
- Research Focus: Upper-year classes focused on building research skills for community professionalization or graduate school.
- Mohawk and Oneida Language Courses: Learn from David Kanatawakhon, his well-known ‘root method’ for learning these local languages through various courses offered on-campus and in the community.

“Making the decision to go to Western for dental school was an easy one. I have felt endless support from the Indigenous Student Centre and Schulich Medicine & Dentistry from the start of the application process, during interviews, and throughout my first year. Moving away from Alberta to come to school here was a little nerve-wracking, but I have met so many amazing friends within the program and feel right at home here at Western.

Upon graduation, I hope to work with or establish a travelling dental clinic to provide dental care to northern and rural Indigenous Communities. I have learned that there is generally a big fear associated with going to the dentist. However, I feel that providing access to care rooted in cultural understanding and awareness is critical to empowering Nations to receive the dental care they deserve.”

Second-Entry Programs

Some specialized programs at Western do not begin in first year and require two to four years of university study prior to entry. These programs require specific university prerequisites, admission or aptitude tests, interviews and supplementary information depending on the program. The following second-entry programs are dedicated to encouraging Indigenous students to apply by creating Indigenous Specific Pathways and supports.

IVEY BUSINESS | ivey.uwo.ca
Honours Business Administration (HBA)

Western is one of Canada’s leading research-intensive universities. Our researchers, teachers and graduate students are leaders in their field and conduct innovative research in exciting and emerging areas.

Master of Professional Education (MPEd Program)

Aboriginal Educational Leadership
Six Nations Polytechnic, Six Nations of the Grand River Territory

This course-based Master’s program prepares educators for a range of leadership roles in schools, school systems, colleges, adult learning settings and related agencies. In addition to a thorough grounding in the theories and practices of leadership, graduates of the program will have a comprehensive understanding of Indigenous knowledge and pedagogy and the historical and contemporary conditions of Aboriginal education in Canada.

The Leadership in Aboriginal Education Master’s program brings together students from a diverse range of ancestries and workplace backgrounds to critically engage with relevant issues in Indigenous Education. The program is designed around a cohort model that promotes peer support, class cohesion, high completion rates and continuity of learning from one course to the other.

Priority will be given to Indigenous applicants.

Graduate Programs with Indigenous Admissions Pathways

Master of Physical Therapy

Indigenous applicants may be considered for designated seats if they have:
- a GPA over 3.4 over their last full-time credits
- have earned a grade of 70% or higher in the prerequisite courses
- are ranked above average on the CASPer situational judgement test
- are ranked highly by reviewers.

MScOT info

Each year Western’s program for the Master of Science in Occupation Therapy (MScOT) reserves two spaces for students who identify as Indigenous with Canadian citizenship. Indigenous applicants will be considered on a case-by-case basis. In order to be successful in the program, it is strongly recommended that applicants have a minimum SubGpa of 3.0.

Meet Misko

Baker Lake and Walpole Island First Nation
Third-year, Criminology and a double minor in Dance and Indigenous Studies
- Previous First-year Rep & Cultural Coordinator
- Current President, Indigenous Students’ Association
- Mini-University (Team Leader & Youth Mentor)

“Boozhoo Misko Banaishe n’dizhinkawz, Wahbashayshe n’doodem, Qamani’tuaq guyah Bkejwanong n’dojibaa. Dishkan Ziibi n’donji. Inuk Anishinabe Mide Kwe n’dow.

I am currently in my third year at King’s University College with a major in Criminology, and a double minor in Indigenous Studies and Dance.

Throughout my time at Western University, I have been a part of the Indigenous Students’ Association (ISA), taking on various roles including the President! The past summers I worked as the Team Leader with Mini-University within the Indigenous Student Centre (ISC). In the summer of 2022 I had the opportunity to be a Head and Heart Fellow.

ISC has always helped me, not only with employment opportunities, but with cultural knowledge, academic guidance, a place to study and be myself. University is a time where you have the freedom and tools to find who you are and what you want to be, ISC was always there cheering me on and supporting me.

Outside of working and being a full-time student at Western, I love being outside, and crafting. I am currently a facilitator with LEVEL Justice where I deliver a program that teaches youth about the justice system and traditional Indigenous Legal systems. One of my greatest passions is working with youth - without working with Mini-University or LEVEL I would have never found that out!”
Meet Gerry

London, ON
Second-year student, Arts and Humanities, English
• Retired from Canadian Armed Forces
• Retired from work (6 years)

“I belong to the Western senior’s research group and enjoyed my time participating in the Head and Heart Indigenous Research Fellowship in 2019.

After retirement I needed something to do. I have always been an avid reader and thought I would like to explore and understand reading more in depth. Literature is a beautiful field. On the one hand you are literally ghosting yourself into fantastic classical stories, and on the other hand you are caught up in current social or historical issues. When I graduate, I will be prepared to write and research the things I care about. I am currently awaiting additional information on my birthing background.

Currently, I enjoy meeting other Indigenous students, staff, and professors at Indigenous Services. Socializing is always important. I cook some food occasionally, and that small contribution enables happy-times and that blissful social atmosphere.”

Student Life

During your time at Western, you will have a wide variety of options to get involved on campus. The student experience at Western University is a complex ecosystem of individual stories that shape what we all believe about the university’s purpose and impact. Here are some of the organizations and support systems available to you.

Head and Heart Undergraduate Research Program
Open to both undergraduate and graduate students, Head and Heart is a unique summer research program, run by Research Western and the Office of Indigenous Initiatives. Indigenous students will be given bursaries to complete 14 weeks of research with a designated faculty member. They will be encouraged to bring ways of learning that respect both the head and the heart within their research projects.

Impact Experience
Impact Experience collaborates with communities to develop and implement projects that align with their needs. Team leaders – like you – are vital to the success of the program. As an ambassador from Western, this is an opportunity to gain and impart the development of intercultural perspectives.

“My name is Marissa, and I am Inuit from the lower north shore of Labrador and a first-year student at Western’s Faculty of Law. I have a bachelor’s degree from the University of Guelph where I graduated from in 2021 and studied Criminal Justice and Public Policy. I have wanted to be a lawyer since I can remember to serve the needs of my community. I feel like I am fulfilling my dreams at Western Law, and have been so grateful for the support the Indigenous Student Centre provides their students. I could not have chose a better school! At Western Law, I founded the Indigenous Student Centre as I saw a need for more representation of Indigenous students in law. We ratified our club in October of 2021, and hope to hold many events in 2022 for Indigenous students interested in law.”
